Our vision is a world where animals live free from suffering and we know that good animal welfare is a fundamental part of a better world. Working together to improve the lives of animals means contributing to community wellbeing, building sustainable agricultural systems and protecting the environment. By helping animals we can make sure people have enough healthy and humane food while supporting the livelihoods of farmers and producers.

“We are thrilled to be accepted as part of NFACC and we are looking forward to working with our fellow members. As an organization, we work with the people and organizations that have the most meaningful and direct impact on the lives of animals and NFACC is the most important and impactful forum for improving the lives of farm animals in Canada.” – Josey Kitson, Executive Director, Canada, World Animal Protection
